Peter re-cycled timbers to create a very private Bali style house overlooking Pittwater.

His brief was to create a Balinese style beach house which maximised the northern sun and Pittwater views.

The owners wanted to use recycled timber to give their house that 'antique look'.

Peter featured old grey or red iron wood telegraph poles as exposed roof trusses and verandah posts to give the house a cosy, romantic ambience.

An old-world buffet revamped as a bathroom vanity compliments the overall warmth of this beautiful home.

Strategically placed windows and glass doors provide a combination of distant and intimate views.

Peter designed a traditional and modest beach house offering a very welcoming feel due to the extensive use of timber.

The owners were thrilled to report that they love the end result and so do all their friends.
